evolution is accelerating

The new Continium in Kerkrade reveals the role of industry in the society of today and tomorrow. The key message: science, industry and society influence each other. And doing so, a centuries-long evolutionary spiral is created. This message naturally needs a brief introduction for a fourteen-year-old audience.

and you are a part of it

Tinker wrote and produced a time warp theatre. Tungsten Studio did the audiovisual production. Visitors experience a dizzying journey through time in 360 degrees, from the creation of our planet through to solutions for conserving it sustainably. As their seats also move through the space, the audience themselves become part of the evolutionary spiral.
